SERIOUS UPRISING IN FORMOSA.

TROUBLES CONFRONT JAPANESE.

Terrible Massacre of Native Christians. Seymour Has Been Relieved and Now on His Way to Tien-Tsin--Presbyterian Mission Burned--Indian Forces to Go to China.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Cheefu, June 28.—Reports received from Shanghai say the Japanese have saved the situation, though they have a serious uprising of their own to deal with in Formosa, where natives are swarming. Refugees from the inland districts relate tales of a horrible massacre of native Christians, rivaling in horror the Armenia massacres. Only officials within reach of a gunboat are making any show of offering protection.

SEYMOUR RELIEVED.

St. Petersburg, June 28—Today the minister of war received the following dispatch from Admiral Flexejeff, dated at Port Arthur:

"During Monday night a detachment of four companies of Russians, under the command of Col. Schvinisky, with four companies of foreigners, relieved Admiral Seymour. They carried two hundred wounded to Tien-Tsin."

Reports say the Russian war ministry has sent to all military and civil authorities secret telegraphic orders to prepare everything for mobilization.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSION BURNED.

New York, June 28.—The Presbyterian Board of Missions this morning received a cablegram stating that the missionaries at Wei Hein, at which place the mission has been destroyed by Boxers, have escaped. No word has been received from Pekin, Peao or Tin Fu.

The mission property at Wei Hein, which was burned, cost $40,000. The missionaries had a narrow escape.

INDIAN FORCE FOR CHINA.

Simla, June 28.—The force that will go to China from this section consists of 223 officers, 38 non-commissioned officers, 940 native troops, 7,170 camp followers, 1,250 horses and 2,000 mules. They will carry six field pieces and eleven maxims.

NEWS FROM KEMPFF.

Washington, June 28—Admiral Kempff cables that there are now about 12,000 troops ashore at Chefu.

YESTERDAY'S DEVELOPMENTS.

Washington, June 27.—The developments of the day respecting China were important and interesting. The Chinese minister's report of the departure of the foreign ministers and their guards from Pekin greatly relieved the officials here, who took it as the first tangible evidence that the imperial Chinese government had a full realization of the enormity of permitting the ministers to come to personal harm, and were thus undertaking, as far as lay in their power, to observe the amenities of international exchange. The keenest interest is shown by the officials to learn the conditions under which the ministers left Pekin. The Chinese minister's dispatch was ominously silent on that point, and though the minister himself maintains almost obstinately his confidence in the non-existence of a state of war, it is generally admitted that it will be difficult to accept his conclusion, if it shall transpire that the Pekin government has itself sent the ministers away with their passports, or what may come to the same thing, with a guard as safe conduct. At the State Department it is said that if it shall be explained that the imperial government did this, not with a purpose of rupturing diplomatic relations, but simply to insure the safety of the ministers, which they were unable to guarantee as long as they remained in Pekin, then there is still ground for an understanding. It is pointed out that in such case, the self-confessed inability of the imperial government to maintain peace and order at the capital would amount to an admission of its utter failure as a government and would leave China in a worse state than that of actual war. In either event, it now appears to the satisfaction of the officials that there was absolute justification for such intervention as we have offered in China.

Notice has come to the government that the cable companies have again re-opened communication telegraphically with Taku and Che Fu. This arrangement has been made by means of the Russian telegraphic system connecting with the Siberian Railroad system. An European agent has managed to re-open the lines through the means of communication by Che Fu and Taku.

The War Department officials still insist that no orders have gone forward to send more troops to China than the Ninth Regiment, now on its way from Manila, and the Sixth Cavalry, which will sail from San Francisco next Sunday for Nagasaki and perhaps Taku. It is said that with these two organizations and the marines now on Chinese soil, General Chaffee will have the full brigrade to which his rank entitles him. Rumors of withdrawals of troops from Cuba are said to be the probable basis for the persistent statements that more soldiers have been ordered to China. It is admitted that two regiments will soon be ordered to the United States from Cuba, the particular organizations being designated by General Wood, but they simply will take the place in home garrisons of regiments of soldiers which will go out to Manila to relieve volunteer organizations there.

Harvard Wins the Boat Race.

By Wire to the Telegram.

New London, Conn., June 28—Harvard won the four oared boat race today by two lengths. The weather was favorable for the race, though early in the day there were appearances of rain.

Another Engagement.

The Gate City Band is in great demand this year, having already filled a number of engagements. Mr. Heenan Hughes came up from Graham yesterday afternoon and made arrangements with the manager, Mr. J. G. Fowler, to have the band go to Graham next Wednesday, Jnly 4th, to furnish music for a Republican speaking. Several Republican orators will be present, and it is thought the additional attraction of the Gate City Band will draw a large crowd.

Gives Up the Throne for Love.

Vienea Dispatch. 25th.

It is officially announced that Archduke Franz Ferdinand, the Austrian heir apparent, will formally renounce the right of succession to the imperial throne on Thursday next.

On the following day he will wed the Countess Sophie Chotek, his morganatic marriage being the reason for which he will withdraw from the succession. The Countess will receive the title of Dutchess of Reichstadt.

Joe Jefferson, the noted actor, and his son Charles have invested largely in land at Hobe Sound, Fla., and have planned a little village to be called Jeffersonville. It will be essentially an actors' and managers' village on the banks of the Indian River. Quite a number of prominent theatrical managers have already bought lots with the intention of building their winter homes there.

Beef is scarcer in Chattanooga today than ever before in the history of the city since 1884. The beef famine is attributable to several causes, principal of which is the large shipments of young cattle two years ago to Colorado, Tex. and the Indian Territory. The heavy rains of the past twenty days also have prevented stock raisers and drovers from driving their cattle in to market.

The United States battleship Kentucky arrived at the naval anchorage off Tomkdinsville, S. I., shortly before noon yesterday, after having completed her final acceptance trial. It was generally understood on board the vessel that the trial of the Kentucky was very satisfactory and equal in all respects to that of the Kearsage.

THE ELKS TAKE GREENSBORO.

A NIGHT OF JOYOUS FESTIVITY.

The Elks took the town by storm last night and held it. The institution of the Greensboro lodge will be long remembered by every antlered brother who took part in the joyous festivities of the occasion. Today the members of the "youngest lodge in America" do not understand how they managed to exist so long in ignorance of the hidden secrets of the B. P. O. E.

Nearly a hundred visiting Elks were here to see that the Greensboro candidates "got all that was coming to them," and no one will deny that they got it, good and strong. The first visitors arrived at noon, coming from Charlotte and Durham. The afternoon train brought several from Wilmington. The following members of the order in Winston arrived in the evening:

T. W. Watson, W. J. Roberts, Joe Rosenbacher, Sterling Smith, H. W. Kronheimer, C. D. Kromer, H. L. Riggins, J. B. McCrary, B. H. Marsh, W R. Reynolds, A. H. Galloway, G. F. Dwire, H. C. Kerner, M. D. Bailey, Jr., W. S. Snipes, W. H. Wood, Thomas Maslin, T. S. Fleshman, R. J. Reynolds, J. M. Wilson, W. I. Brooks, Watt Martin, A. B. Bynum, R. S. Galloway T. W. Allen, J. C. Buxton, J. H. Foote, H. V. Horton, J. S. Dunn, C. G. Hill, P. A. Gorrell, R. W. Nading, A. J. Kluttz, T. V. Edmonds, C. C. Sapp, W. N. Cooper, P. H. Lybrook, C. F. Tomlinson, H. C. Lemley and George Tate. They were accompanied by the Winston Concert Band.

The Danville delegation, 35 or 40 strong, arrived on the southbound local.

The visitors and the Greensboro candidates formed in line at the depot, and, headed by the Winston band, paraded Elm street. The Winston boys carried several humorous banners, bearing such inscriptions as "They'll Get All That's Coming to Them, and a Darn Sight More;" "Winston Has Her Elks Ter back-er, but We'll Back Greensboro, Too;" "If We Like the Dispensary We'll Buy It." The delegation from Danville carried long streamers advertising their carnival and street fair to be held in the fall. Conspicuous in the ranks was the inevitable goat.

The exercises incident to the institution of the lodge took place in the K. of P. hall and lasted until about midnight. The initiatory work was conferred by a team made up from the visitors, the offices being filled as follows:

Exalted Ruler—W. J. Roberts, Winston.

Leading Knight—H. J. Gerken, Wilmington.

Loyal Knight—W. A. Mabry, Durham.

Lecturing Knight — George Newcomb, Danville.

Chaplain — Sterling Smith, Winston.

Secretary—A. B. Bynum, Winston.

Treasurer—C. D. Cone, Winston.

Esquire—O. E. Hatchett, Danville.

Assistant Esquires—T. W. Watson and P. A. Gorrell, Winston.

Tiler—R. W. Wallace, Wilmington.

Inner Guard—T. D. Edmonds, Winston.

After the secret work had been exemplified the Elks repaired to the McAdoo House, where an elegant banquet was served from 12:30 until the early morning hours. Tempting viands and invigorating refreshments were served in a most delightful manner.

A pleasing feature of the banquet were the toasts and the happy responses. Gen. James D. Glenn was toastmaster, and in a few well chosen and happily expressed words extended a most cordial welcome to all the loyal and enthusiastic Elks gathered around the festal board. The response was made by Mr. J. C. Buxton, of Winston. The toast, "The Baby Elk," was responded to in a humorous and eloquent manner by Prof. D. B. Smith, of Winston. Other toasts were responded to by Mr. Henry L. Cabell, of Danville, and Mr. M. D. Bailey, Jr., of Winston.

MILITARY PRISONERS ESCAPE.

They Beat a Guard Into Insensibility and Leave the Prison.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Chicago, June 28.—A special dispatch to the Tribune from Minneapolis says the military prisoners at Fort Shelling attempted to escape last night. While Private Winn was guarding a squad of prisoners he was kicked by a mule, causing him to take his attention from his duty. Taking advantage of Winn's condition, the prisoners grabbed his rifle and beat him into insensibility, after which they fled. With the exception of one man, all the prisoners have been captured. One man was shot and seriously wounded.

A New Subject of Controversy.

Durham Herald.

As to whether or not Christ was one of ten brothets and sisters is causing no little talk in Raleigh, so it is learned from the Ttmes-Visitor, of that city. Recently a teacher in the high school told her pupils that Christ was one of a family of ten children. A preacher in the city severely criticised the young woman who made the statement and as a result she was asked to resign. Now a lawyer comes out and says the school teacher was right and that the preacher should be "fired."

Satisfactorily Adjusted.

The matter between the Nantucket Mills and the Southern Finishing and Warehouse Company, which has been in arbitration for some time, has been compromised. While none of the details of the settlement are given out for publication, it is understood that the adjustment is satisfactory to all concerned.

The suit was on claims and counter claims held by the two companies, amounting in the aggregate to more than $60,000.

President Failed to Sign.

Winston-Salem, June 27—Winston will not get her Federal Court for the present at least. District Attorney Holton was today notified by the Attorney General at Washington that the bill giving Winston two terms of the court annually, in January and July, failed to become a law. It appears that the bill passed both houses of Congress, but for some cause was not signed by the President. Winston will make an effort to get the bill through the next congress.

Chairs for the City Hall.

The Board of Aldermen met this morning at 10 o'clock to consider a proposition made by a concern that wishes to furnish the opera chairs for the new city hall. The firm is the Grand Rapids School Furniture Manufacturing Company, of Grand Rapids, Mich. After discussing the matter, the aldermen decided to submit a proposition instead of accepting the company's proposition.

Excursion From Durham.

The Sundayschool of Trinity Methodist church, Durham, ran an excursion to Guilford Battle Ground this morning. The excursion was well patronized by Sundayschool people and others, both old and young, and a delightful day was spent. A more agreeable place than the Battle Ground for holding a picnic would be hard to find.

REGISTRATION BOOKS OPENED.

An Entirely New Registration of all Qualified Voters is Required.

All over North Carolina the registration books for the August election were opened this morning at 9 o'clock. The law provides that the books shall be kept open for twenty days, with the exception of Sundays. They will close on Saturday, July 21st, at sunset, eleven days before the election. On each Saturday the registrars may be found at the voting places in the various precincts from 9 o'clock a. m. until sunset. On other days the books will be kept at the residences of the registrars, who can legally register a voter any day except Sunday.

The law requires an entirely new registration this year, which is absolutely essential to every man who wishes to cast a ballot in the coming election.

In Greensboro registration was begun as soon as the books were opened and has been kept up pretty lively during the day. In one precinct the registrar found several voters waiting for him, each being anxious to be the first to register under the new law.

The Meeting at the Court House Tonight.

The meeting in the court house tonight is for the discussion of an important question, and all who feel an interest in the matter should attend and participate. The question to be decided is whether the dispensary has been a detriment to the city of Greensboro, and those who attend may expect to hear both sides argued by those who are supposed to know of what they are talking. It is presumed that business men and others will speak from actual experience and observation.

Much valuable information will doubtless be gained by those attending the meeting.

Philadelphia Dispatch, 25th.

John Wanamaker is confined to his bed at his country residence, near Jenkin town, suffering from an organic disease. His condition is serious, but not necessarily dangerous. He is unable to receive any visitors. His physicians said that his condition today was somewhat better, and they had little doubt that he would recover. Mr. Wanamaker has been ill for several weeks, but it was only a few days ago that he was forced to remain in bed.

Runaway Marriage at the Guilford.

Mr. Thomas H. Chappell and Miss Fannie M. Farriss, of Charlotte county, Va., were married at Hotel Guilford last night, Rev. Horace Weeks Jones performing the ceremony. The parents of the young lady are said to have seriously objected to the match, which caused the couple to come to Greensboro. Mr. and Mrs. Chappell returned home today to receive the forgiving parents' blessing.

AT SEA ON VICE-PRESIDENCY

ARE NORTH CAROLINA DELEGATES

Willing to Support Any Good Democrat—Franks Resigns From State Election Board—Pops of Wake Fuse—Raleigh Gone Daft on Ball.

Special Correspondence of the Telegram.

Raleigh, June 28.—Only one more farmers' institute is to beheld this season: June 30th at King's, in Stokes county. The political campaign knocks out the institutes.

The Raleigh people are much pleased at the work of their baseball team thus far. People never before known to take interest in the game are this year enthusiasts.

Secretary Pearsall at Democratic headquarters says the political prospect brightens daily and rapidly and that "things are coming our way."

The question was asked, "Whom do the North Carolina delegates to the National Democratic Convention favor for Vice-President?" The reply was "Nobody knows." Secretary Pearsall said: "We are so completely absorbed in eliminating the negro vote in North Carolina that nothing has been said about the vice-presidency, one way or another. The North Carolina delegates are willing to support any good available Democrat. Personally, I favor Sulzer of New York."

At the meeting of the State election board yesterday, called out of date by the Republican and Populist members in most useless fashion, the resignation of Senator J. F. Franks was received and accepted. Franks said ten days ago he would resign. Tuesday when he got here he was in doubt what he would do. This was because he was told by some of the western Republicans that the board wonld not elect the man he would nominate as his successor. State Chalrman Holton had been asked by Franks to pick a man. When Franks found the man he named would be slated he named J. B. Freeman, of Henderson county. Next Monday the board meets again, according to law, that being the time when it is required to inspect the ballots to be used at the State election and see that they are on white paper, without device.

The Republicans in this county fused with the Populists yesterday, without even going through the "motions" of a convention. Their executive committee simply met and decided to take the nominations for sheriff, coroner, two members of the legislature and three county commissioners and let the Populists have the remainder. Then a committee of seven was appointed to pick their Republicans for the places assigned to them.

CUMMINGS FOR HILL.

Regards Him as the Logical Democratic Candidate for Vice-President.

Washington Post, 25th.

"I am for David B. Hill, of New York, for Vice-President, and I believe and hope he will be nominated at Kansas City," said Hon. Amos J. Cummings yesterday. "The Democrats cannot do better. I want Hill nominated, and then I want to see an arrangement made whereby Hill and Roosevelt will meet at the capital of every State in the Union in joint debate. I have not the slightest doubt but that both gentlemen would agree to this, and if they did, the people of this great and glorious country would never see such fur-flying pyrotechnics if they should live a thousand years. It would be worth going hundreds of miles to see and hear. Both men are dead game, and I tell you there would be all kinds of fun. It would be a campaign full of ginger from start to finish."

"Would Mr. Hill be acceptable to Mr. Bryan?"

"Most assuredly he would. I believe Mr. Hill is the logical candidate, or rather the man, for I do not know that he is a candidate, or that he would accept it, but it would not surprise me to see a stampede for him similar to that for Mr. Roosevelt.

"I am going to Kansas City to see Bryan nominated, and I am going to see him elected just as sure as I live to see election day."

A general strike of coal miners in the Birmingham district is regarded as a probability, owing to the prospect of miners and operators failing to agree on a wage scale.

Hill Debarred, May be Parker.

Washington Special to Raleigh Post.

Among well informed Democrats here the sentiment for Chief Justice Parker, of New York State for Vice-President is growing. Hill is eliminated as he opposed the income tax and is an attorney for several trusts in his State. Shiveley, of Indiana, has many supporters; Towne, of Minnesota, is strong in the West, and as a campaigner has no equal except Bryan. Still the opinion prevails that the candidate for Vice-President should come from east of the Mississippi river. Carter Harrison, of Illinois, is also among the possibilities.

Ex-Governor Patterson, of Colorado, is now named as the possible temporary chairman of the convention. He is a Democrat of long standing, having represented his State in Congress, been its governor, and is editor of the Denver News, and is the most prominent Democrat mentioned to succeed Wolcott for the Senate. He is a thorough Democrat and is a man of large means. No name is mentioned yet for permanent chairman, with any large support behind it. Richardson, of Tennessee, desires the place, but it will likely come east.

CROKER AT TAMMANY.

Paid His First Visit Tuesday and Told of his Utter Readiness to Support the Kansas City Platform.

New York Sun.

Richard Croker paid his first visit to Tammany Hall yesterday afternoon after defining the anti-imperialism issue. Mr. Croker's visit to Tammany Hall was expected. He went there to see the district leaders as they called to get their tickets for Kansas City. There was a formal meeting of the Executive Committee, although most of its members were at the Hall in the early afternoon. Mr. Croker spent four hours there, talking with the leaders and his friends. John F. Carroll was at the hall, too, attending to his dutias as deputy leader. Mr. Croker was in excellent humor. So was Mr. Carroll. So apparently were all the leaders. There was a further decrease yesterday in the talk of disciplining Tammany men for the part they have had in the affairs of the Ice Trust. The anti-Carroll talk particularly subsided.

The Croker definition of anti-imperialism came out at an interview which the Tammany chieftan had with several reporters in his office at 111 Broadway, early in the day. The reporters wanted Mr. Croker to make a positive declaration of his attitude on the question of 16 to 1. Mr. Croker said positively that he would not discuss the question at all. He said that he was ready to stand on the platform adopted at Kansas City.

"This is my position," Mr. Croker said. "I am ready to accept the platform that the Democrats at Kansas City adopt, no matter what it is. I don't think that the currency question will be very prominent in the campaign, anyway. The main fight will be on trusts and anti-imperialism. The question about 16 to 1 is whether enough anti-imperialist votes would be gained if the plank was dropped to make it pay. I realize that the sentiment in this State is against 16 to 1. Don't misunderstand me, however. I'm ready to stand on the platform. I don't make the platform. The Democrats do that. I am not going to fight for or against the plank."

"What do you mean by anti-imperialism, Mr. Croker?" was asked.

"My idea of aanti-imperialism," said Mr. Croker promptly, "is opposition to the fashion of shooting everybody who doesn't speak English."

"You had four Vice-Presidential possibilities in the club last night, Mr. Croker," said a reporter. "How are they all getting on?"

"They're well," said Mr. Croker. "But there are lots of Vice-Presidential candidates that you don't know about. There are a whole lot of them. I've heard of several you haven't said anything about."

"Tell us who they are," said one of the reporters.

"Oh, I can't do that," said Mr. Croker. That wouldn't do. But there are a lot of them."

Resolution Against Street Fairs.

In view of the fact that street fairs and carnivals of a degrading type are being held in many of our towns and cities, we enter a vigorous protest against the same. We call upon ministers, business men and all good people to join us in asking mayors to use their power to prevent such shows as imperil our youth and are an insult to womanhood.

2d. That we condemn the Canton Carnival, who impudently claim the endorsement of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and express our indignation at the use of our name in connection with same.

WOMEN AND HOME

WOMEN'S INTERESTS.

A Celebrated Tenor's Advice to Young Singers.

First, in regard to the voice. I am inclined to believe that any person possessed of health, a deep chest, a good larynx, and with no confirmed bad habits in tone production, and who has in addition an inexhaustible supply of perseverance and patience, can sing.

Concentration of purpose is the true secret of success in singing, as in every other art and occupation under the sun. Granting, then, that you have a good if not a great voice, what are the next essentials for an operatic career?

Youth—cela va sans dire. You will need all the years of your life to perfect your art, and the sooner you begin after completing your physical development the better. It is a great mistake, however, to begin using the voice before attaining the growth. The vocal organs previous to this time are immature and a very little strain will weaken and often ruin them beyond repair.

Properly equipped at the start with voice, youth and health, a singer has much in his favor, but more is yet required for a sincere artist. A thorough knowledge of music in all its branches is vital. Nearly every one of our great artists is a skilled musician. The study of music should be thorough long before vocal training begins. The better the musician the quicker are the results in the cultivation of the voice.

Temperament is the one great requirement for an opera singer, without which all other qualities are insufficient. The temperament which enables me to feel the thought in the music as well as in the words, and to give expression to that thought by voice and action, is the soul of all true operatic work, and from it is born dramatic ability.

With all these qualities you may think success is certain. But that is not so. One may possess all of them, yet never attain greatness. Application, perseverance, concentration, are the qualities which tell. Indomitable will accomplishes wonders, and you will need it in operatic work.

So then, my friends, if after due consideration and competent advice you think you are suited to operatic work, by all means devote yourself to it. Do all in your power to fit yourself for your work. If you cannot, at once study abroad, then do your best at home. Study the languages. Perfect yourself mentally, physically and vocally for your chosen career. Remember that a great deal, almost everything, depends upon yourself. Your instructor can only guide you. Do not rely upon him to accomplish results. If your voice is of only moderate compass and volume do not think of going into operatic work. On the other hand, good lungs do not make a prima donna.—Alvarez, the tenor, in N. Y. World.

Gasoline in Millinery.

Gasoline is very useful in renewing old millinery, for the hat itself as well as the trimmings. First remove all garniture, brush the felt thoroughly, being careful to brush it the way the nap runs, then dampen a piece of soft cloth and clean it as you do a glove, a space at a time, being careful these spaces do not show a soiled line about them, which line may be prevented by brisk rubbing with a clean dry cloth. Hang the hat in the open air for a half hour, when the odor has disappeared and it is ready to be retrimmed unless the shape is injured, when a little ingenious pressing over a bowl or tin pail will give it a really fresh appearance, and if wired it can be bent into a more modern shape, so that even its owner will not detect its antiquity. While the hat is being aired attend to the trimmings, picking out all old stitches, then dipping the ribbon in the gasoline and rubbing it vigorously to remove all soilure. Silk, velvet and net stuffs are cleansed in the same manner, also lace and chiffon which, however, must not be handled clumsily, a gentle squeezing only being necessary. After hanging in the open air they may be pressed, the thin goods needing only a moderately hot oven, while the ribbon should be wetted then "sawed" briskly under a quite hot iron, which usually removes the wrinkles, returns the crispness and leaves it fresh and clean without any tell-tale gloss. Velvet needs to be steamed to raise the crushed nap. This is done in two ways, by holding the wrong side over a boiling tea kettle and by moving it back and forth over a hot iron upon which a cloth wrung in cold water has been laid, the latter restoring the stiffness of the body as well as raising the nap.

Potato Salad.

Six cold boiled potatoes, one medium-sized onion, sliced thin into a turee; first a layer of potato, then of onion, alternately, until the dish is full; sprinkle with pepper and salt occasionally while filling the dish; do the same on the top; put on four tablespoonfuls of sweet cream; melt one half cup of butter or lard from fried pork, with half a pint of vinegar; when boiling hot pour over the salad and it is ready to serve.

The Head of the House has many responsibilities resting upon him, and among those of a serious character is the health of the family. Those who understand the laws of hygiene know that sewer gas from defective pipes, and dangerous conditions arising from imperfect drainage and sewerage, breed disease, and every house should be fitted up with sanitary plumbing. We are experts in this line.

Beefsteak and Oysters.

Broil a sirloin or tenderloin steak; season; take one quart of oysters; drain off all the liquor, put them into the stewpan with half of a small cupful of butter, or less butter and a little sweet cream, salt and pepper enough to season; let them boil, and turn them over the steak on the platter. Oysters broiled and laid on the steak are very nice.

Mother—What are you doing with papa's hair restorer?

LOSS BY WASTE.

A Plan of Economy Made by a Bright Woman.

I think our brothers could save many a penny by being more systematic, says a woman writer in an exchange. If grocers, merchants and manufacturers were as careless as the farmer there would be more failures than now. There are so many avenues of waste on a farm. What is the condition of your granary? Are there holes and cracks for the grain to run through and waste? I sometimes think farmers would make more money if they sold a crop when harvested, as there is so much lost by shrinkage and waste.

Farmers are sometimes careless with harness, blankets and whips. There is so much money invested in such articles around a farm it requires much care to keep them in order. Each farmer should have a cupboard for such articles. He should also have a place for nails, tools, etc., and keep them in their places. Some are careless about leaving boards around with rusty nails in for the stock to step on. Such should be picked up for they are dangerous. Are your corn cribs so arranged that the chickens can help themselves, thus wasting the corn and unfitting themselves for laying? It is an established fact that hens will not lay when they are too fat.

I wonder how many farmers arm themselves with a hammer and nails on their tours around the farm so they can nail a loose board on fence or building. You will find that our grandmother's adage "A stitch in time saves nine" will apply out of doors as well as in.

Making Turkeys Pay.

In Farming, of Toronto, is an interesting article on turkey raising by Mrs. Graham. She raises turkeys because she thinks it pays. Starting in the fall with four young hen turkeys of about twelve pounds each and a pure bred male of sixteen pounds she allows would cost about $5.50. She wants no lighter weights. Food for the old turkeys for a year would cost eighty cents each, and meal for the young ones abou $1, making the outlay $10.

While some raise twenty or twenty-five young ones from each bird, she thinks ten is a fair average for a beginner, and in the fall the forty should average thirteen pounds each, or 520 pounds, worth there 6½ cents a pound or $34 or $29 over cost of feeding. She makes no account of coops or houses, and they can be easily made from old boards and boxes, and she does not confine them only in stormy weather.

They are great insect destroyers, and from watching children feeding a lame turkey with grasshoppers she decided that it would eat 275 grasshoppers in a day, or a flock of forty at six weeks old would eat 11,000 a day, while at three months old they would eat twice that number. While young, she varies the bread-crumb diet by giving thick milk, soft curd, onion tops and custard from infertile eggs. Never feeds sloppy food, or raw cornmeal, and uses no tonics or patent medicines.

CANCER IS NOT INCURABLE

Time was when Cancer was considered as incurable as leprosy. Physicians and friends could give little relief or encouragement to one afflicted with this terrible disease. Even now doctors know of no remedy for this fearful malady; while admitting it to be a blood disease, they still insist that there is no hope outside of a surgical operation, and advise you to have the Cancer cut out, but at the same time cannot assure you that it will not return. You may cut or draw out the sore, but another will come in its place, for the disease is in the blood—is deep-seated and destructive, and beyond the reach of the surgeon's knife or caustic, flesh-destroying plasters. The blood must be purified and strengthened, the system relieved of all poisonous, effete matter before the Cancer sore will heal.

S. S. S. is the only medicine that can overcome this powerful and contaminating poison and force it out of the blood. It builds up and invigorates the old, and supplies new, rich, life-giving blood. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy; no mineral can be found in it; the roots and herbs from which it is made contain powerful purifying properties that act directly upon the blood system and make a safe and permanent cure of Cancer. It has cured thousands, why not you?

Cancer is not always inherited; your family may be free from any taint, yet your blood may become so polluted that a severe and stubborn form of the disease may develop from a sore or ulcer on your tongue or other part of your body; a slight bruise or hurt, a little pimple on the eyelid, lip or nose, a small lump on the jaw or breast, a harmless looking wart or mole, and other causes so insignificant as to attract little or no attention. If you have an obstinate sore, don't rely upon salves or ointments to cure it—begin with S. S. S. at once; it will cleanse your blood and prevent the formation of cancerous cells.

Impure Blood Invites Disease.

Mrs. R. Shirer, La Plata, Mo., writes: "A small pimple came on my jaw about one inch below the ear on the left side of my face. At first it gave me no trouble, and I did not think it was anything serious until the jaw began to swell and became much inflamed. At the same time the sore began to spread and eat into the flesh, and gave me intense pain. I tried everything I could hear of, but nothing did me any good. I then began the use of S. S. S., and after taking several bottles the Cancer healed, and there is now no sign of the disease. This was two years ago, and I am still enjoying perfect health."

Send for our special book on Cancer; it contains much information that will interest you; it is free.

Write our physicians about your case, and for any advice or information wanted; they have made a life study of Cancer and all blood diseases. We make no charge whatever for this.

"TO DYNAMITE OUR SANCTUM."

Mr. H. B. Varner, the excellent editor of the Lexington Dispatch. is the Democratic candidate for Commissioner of Labor and Printing. He is also, and has been for some time, the efficient chairman of the Executive Committee of his county. His habits of pushing the campaign seems to have gotten the ire of the enemy aroused against him. In this week's issue of his paper he says:

The fact that we have received letters threatening violence upon us does not in the least deter us from doing what we feel to be our "plain duty." The intimation that a posse of five hundred negroes are ready to dynamite our sanctum and blow it into atoms nor the threat that others are "laying" for us does not effect us in the least. Until a barrel of powder is set off under us and ends our earthly career we fully expect to do business at the old stand. We regret very much that some people have decided to make such a campaign and we trust they will stop and think a little. This is a free country and all men have a right to think for themselves. Let everybody be fair and keep cool and do the right thing under all circumstances. Tell the truth and fear nothing. We have in our possesion letters which, if published, would make men's blood run cold. They are enough to make one think we had suddenly lapsed into barbarism. We have thought best to withhold all such unless circumstances demand their publication.

The adoption of the amendment will go far toward stopping such things and we appeal to all white men to lay aside all feeling, all hatred and all prejudide and make an honest, fair fight for the success of this very important measure. It is above all politics and is manifestly a measure that is pleasing to all white people.

We are sorry to see our contemporary thus situated. It might be unpleasant to one not so nervy and who cannot so well as Brother Varner bring himself up to the point of fearing nothing while telling the truth. Of course the report that they are "laying" for him should be of no concern, for everybody knows that the frequent talk of "blood" in this campaign is bosh, but we must confess that to receive a threat to blow up our sanc tum would alarm us. Think of how it would pie the type.

One Infant Kills Another.

Newberne Journal.

A very unfortunate occurrence, resulting in the death of a boy, took place near Maple Cypress Sunday.

Mrs. William Gaskins went to visit Mrs. Thomas White, taking with her her son, about 7 years of age. Mrs. Gaskins has a boy of about the same age. While their mothers were talking the boys went into another room and soon afterwards the report of a pistol was heard. The Gaskins boy was found lying across a bed with a bullet in his head and death resulted from the wound. The boys had gotten hold of the weapon some way while playing, with the fatal result to young Gaskins. The pistol was lying on the floor. where it had dropped.

Homicide at Bessemer.

Gastonia News.

Will Blalock, colored, undertook to whip his wife Sunday afternoon at Bessemer, when Oscar Coppedge, also colored, interfered. Blalock drew his pistol and fired at Coppedge, missing him, and attempted to fire again, but his pistol failed to fire. Coppedge returned the fire, the first ball taking effect in his assailant's side and the next two entering near the heart. Blalock died yesterday about 11 o'clock. Coppedge surrendered to Officer D. K. Tate and was placed in jail at Dallas yesterday afternoon. The public sympathy is of course in Coppedge's favor.

List of Prominent Republicans Supporting the Amendment.

Charlotte News.

A large proportion of the brains and respectability of the Republican party in this State is ranged on the side of the amendment. Here is only a partial list of those who are strongly in favor of the Amendment:

Hon. Thomas Settle, former Republican congressman from the Fifth District.

E. V. Cox, of Pitt, former Republican member of the Legislature.

A. A. Campbell, of Cherokee, former Republican member of the House.

Hon. Thomas P. Devereux, one of Raleigh's leading lawyers.

Joseph Perry, a well known Republican of Moore county.

D. A. Bitting, a well known Republican of Rural Hall.

Hon. James A. Crisp, Republican chairman of Caldwell county and nominee for the House.

Hon. Charles H. Mebane, Republican State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

These are only a few names called at random from the scores who announced that they would support the amendment.

These are all lifelong Republicans prominent in that party, but have too much patriotism to allow their prejudices to cause them to oppose so important and beneficial a measure as the amendment.

There are thousands of other white Populists and Republicans who will follow their example.

Sherman's Shell Good After 35 Years Under Water.

Lancaster, S. C., Ledger.

A party of young men seining in Bear Creek one day this week dragged out an old bomb shell which had probably been thrown in the creek when Sherman's army passed through here, 35 years ago. It was a harmless looking iron ball about the size of a canteloupe, and from its having been in the water so long it was thought to be harmless as it looked. One of the finders of the old relic had a curiosity to see its contents and after cuting for a while with a pocket knife on the lead-like looking metal with which a hole in it was plugged, concluded it would be best to melt the plug out. It was carried into the field opposite Mr. Walters' store, near the factory, and a fire built on it, with the result that an explosion soon occurred which made some of the inhabitants think that the Chinese had come right up through the center of the earth and were waging war here, tearing up a place in the ground as large as a half sack of flour and scattering particles of the shell for a distance of 50 or 75 yards. Fortunately no one was very near, which accounts for no one being hurt.

STRAWBERRIES.

New York City Can Have Them the Year Round.

It is a plain, practical possibility that this, the richest and most luscious of all the group known as small fruit, can be had on the table (in the vicinity of the large city markets) every day in the year, providing one is ready to pay the price for the fancy. The two most difficult months in the year in which to indulge will be September and October, but even then it is not impossible.

The question then is, how is it done? How are we to have the berries, remembering that only up to a short time ago Christmas to July was the limit The answer is, improvement and selection of varieties, improved methods of forcing, and a wider area of supply of natural or outdoor-grown berries.

For instance, California, thanks tc the improved methods of transportation, supplies the New York market in November and December; of course, the quality is not all that must be desired, still, they are strawberries. Then, beginning with Christmas Day, in the vicinity of New York the nearby skilled gardeners begin to furnish us with perfect quality fruits from the hothouses. Of course, these are expensive, as every full-sized berry grown in that manner and bought from the retail dealer at that season, costs from 50c. to $1 each, or from $9 to $12 per quart, and don't run away with the idea that there is a fortune to the grower at these figures; there is not, for the berries are costly to provide, and yield but a small profit. As the season advances the producer makes more money when he wholesales at $3 per quart.

In February, the district of Antonia, Fla., begins to send berries to the New York market, and they arrive in fair condition. In March the supply of greenhouse, or nearby grown berries is more abundant, and one can indulge more freely, for the best can be had at $3 to $4 per quart, and Floridas at $1. In April the market is supplied from the same sources.

In May we get strawberries from cold frames in this latitude and, when Florida drops out, Georgia begins; then Maryland and Delaware, next South Jersey, next Monmouth county in that state, closely followed by Long Island, and other spots around the metropolis continue the supply. Then comes the berries from up-river and up-state New York, and that formerly ended the season. But now it is prolonged hereabouts by the use of several imported varieties that have the title of "everbearing." St. Joseph is evidently the standby among these, and has proven itself capable of producing luscious berries in August and September, and next October I have not the slightest doubt but that I shall pick first quality fruit.

That completes the year's supply. So strawberries every month in the year in New York is no fancy. It has been done and will continue to be done, as long as any one is rich enough and willing to pay the price. It being the privilege of the wealthy to eat such luxuries, there is no doubt but that this interesting fad will be encouraged.—American Gardening.

LAZY ANIMALS.

There Are Several That Dislike Work as Much as the Sloth.

A bigger mistake was never penned than that which described the sloth as the laziest animal known. Like the snail, the poor sloth was never cut out for anything better. Even when his worst enemy, the keen-toothed jaguar, is chasing him through the green arches of the tropical forest, the wretched sloth cannot add another yard an hour to his speed.

It is easy to find a dozen cases of wild creatures whose dislike for hard work far exceeds that of the sloth. The first duty of any self-respecting bird is surely to build a nest in which to raise its young. Yet look at the number which shirk this.

The cuckoo has passed into a proverb, not only as the laziest of lazy birds, but as a downright thief and poacher. She not only presumes on the kindness of other birds to lay her eggs in their nests, but her young, when hatched, cruelly tosses out its foster brothers and sisters to perish on the cold earth below. The cheeky sparrow, too, has many of the bad habits of the tramp. His nest, when he makes one, is of the most untidy description, and a barn swallow's neat, mud-built abode is very much to his taste if he can seize it during the absence of its proper owner.

Some creatures are much too lazy to feed themselves. There is a large warrior ant the ancestors of which, many generations ago, captured smaller ants as slaves. In the course of ages the fighting ants have become so helpless and weak that if their slaves do not attend them they simply lie, not knowing how or where to procure their food.

To such an extent, indeed, has this proceeded that the very structure of the Amazon Ant, as it is called, has slowly altered, till its jaws have lost their teeth and are become mere nippers—deadly weapons, indeed, but useless except for purposes of war. Not only do their slaves feed them, but also carry them on their backs from palce to place.

The fishhawk is another creature that prefers its hard work done for it. It hovers over the gulls as they are fishing, spots one rising with a plump mackerel in its claws, and swoops down like a thunderbolt. The poor gull, scared out of its senses, drops its feast, which the pirate seizes ere it reaches the water, and devours itself.

In the water one finds many creatures that are too lazy to do their own travelling, and so find something else to act as steed. The remora, or suckling fish, thinks nothing of a thousand-mile trip fastened tight on the back of a shark or the hull of a ship, and when it lets go never dreams of offering a fare, or even so much as a thank you. Another small fish with a big Latin name travels in the mouth of the Brazilian catfish.

Crabs, some of them, are not very energetic. The little peacrab generally foists himself upon the mussel or oyster, and lives in comfort on the spoils of his unwilling host. The hermit crab seems, through ages of laziness, to have lost the power of forming for himself a shell of any kind; so to save himself from becoming a titbit for the first prowler he hides his jelly-like form in the recesses of the first old shell he may come across.

The amount of creatures which trade on others for homes and places of refuge is legion. Owls live in prairie dogs' burrows, petrels of the Chicken Islands in lizards' burrows, while snakes of every description take refuge in the holes dug by rabbits, tortoises, or other earth tunnelers.

FOR THE YOUNG FOLK.

Two Good Stories About Intelligent Animals.

Bred among the coldest regions of the Alps, the splendid St. Bernard dogs are the largest of the canine race. They are accustomed from their birth to the deep snows which everlastingly cover the mountain tops.

Whenever a snow storm occurs the monks belonging to the monastery of St. Bernard send forth their dogs on their errands of mercy. Taught by the wonderful instinct with which they are endowed, they traverse the dangerous paths, and seldom fail to discover the frozen sufferer, even though he is buried under a snow drift. When a dog has made such a discovery, it gives notice by its deep and powerful bay of the perilous state of the sufferer, and endeavors to clear away the snow that covers the lifeless form. The monks hearing the voice of the dog, immediately set off to the aid of the perishing traveller, and in many cases have thus preserved lives. In order to afford every possible help to the sufferer a small flask of spirits is generally tied to the dog's neck.

The following instance of the affection of monkeys for their young may be of interest to young folks: One day as a traveler was passing a bridge which carries the Bohpal railway over the Betwa river, he saw a large number of black-faced "Langur" monkeys upon it. The next morning, passing the same place, he found that one of a gang of workmen had found a young monkey near the line, and had caught it. He also discovered the body of its mother, which had been run over by a train during the night and killed. A large male monkey, however, followed the man when he took up the young monkey (evidently its father), who was seated on the rails about thirty yards from us, eagerly looking for the release of the youngster. The traveller told the man to release the young one, when it ran to the old one, who embraced and fondled it, holding it with one arm against its breast. It was a striking sight, especially as the old monkey was a male.

PORTO RICO'S CONDITION.

What a Government Agent Says About It.

CULTURE OF BANANAS

A Wide Range of Tropical Products—Coffee Culture—No Man Should Go There Who Has No Capital—The Climate and the People.

Mr. O. F. Cook, special agent in charge of the Department of Agriculture, has returned from Puerto Rico and has made a preliminary report to the Secretary. Notwithstanding the numerous books and magazine articles which have been published, there was still very little definite information available concerning the agricultural conditions and economic plants of that island.

At present very little in the way of plant products is exported from Puerto Rico out side of coffee, sugar and tobacco. All other crops are designated "minors," and these being considered unworthy of the serious attention of the planters, their cultivation is generally left to he desultory efforts of the poorest and most ignorant of the population. As a result there has been little attempt at the improvement of varieties either by selection or by the introduction of superior seed. Much of the fruit and vegetables sold in the markets of Puerto Rican cities is of very inferior quality and quite unsuitable for export. The Department will assist the more enterprising farmers, both Americans and Puerto Ricans, in experiments, which many of them have already undertaken, in order to find out what new crops suitable for our markets can be grown there.

As already pointed out in Secretary Wilson's annual report, we are paying over $200,000,000 for tropical plant products, a part of which could be furnished by Puerto Rico. Instead, however, of entering upon too many suggestions at once, it is desirable to settle upon a few of the more promising crops and encourage the production of these articles on a scale sufficient to give them a recognized place in commerce. For bananas, for instance, we paid in 1898 over $5,000,000, mostly in Jamaica and Central America. In Puerto Rico the banana has scarcely been considered as a source of income or an article of export. It has been planted principally for shade in the coffee plantations, and as one variety was as good as another for this purpose, most of the bananas are unsalable. The variety almost exclusively imported into the United States is not generally cultivated. As the conditions for commercial banana growing are very favorable, it may be expected that attempts in this direction will soon be made. It is necessary, however, that at least five hundred acres be put under thorough cultivation, for the product of less land can hardly be marketed to advantage. Unless a company with ample capital will undertake the experiment, it can be made only through an organized effort by the land-owners of some favorable locality.

In the meantime it is of great importance that the existing industries of Puerto Rico be improved. Sugar lands are receiving attention from American capitalists, and large factories with the most modern facilities are being built. Coffee has, however, been the chief product of the island, and is, perhaps, that in which the greatest expansion is possible. Over $13,000,000 worth of coffee has been exported in a single season from Puerto Rico, in spite of the fact that methods of cultivation are of the most primitive character. Instead of seedlings grown in nurseries, those which sprung up by chance in the heavily shaded plantations are used. These are already weak and spindling; in order to keep them alive heavy shade is necessary, and this is continued throughout the life of the plant. This, together with the overcrowding and lack of proper care, brings the average crop down to one-third or less of what might be obtained through better methods of cultivation. There is also a large amount of land suitable for coffee culture, but not now planted, so it is not unreasonable to believe that if this industry were properly developed Puerto Rico might supply at least half of the enormous quantity consumed by the United States, our imports in 1898 being valued at over $65,000,000.

There are, however, few Americans interested in coffee growing, and the capitalists, who have canvassed Puerto Rico for profitable investments have been giving little attention to the possibilities of coffee doubtless because of the depressed condition of the market, the result of overproduction of inferior grades in Brazil and elsewhere. The superior quality of the Puerto Rican article has, however, long been recognized in the European market, and there is every probability that an increasingly large amount will be required in the United States.

For men without capital or experience in the industries of tropical countries, there are no openings in Puerto Rico, but with the improvement of means of transportation there will be much to encourage the settlement of farmers of sufficient enterprise and intelligence to carry on diversified farming and profit by the advantageous local conditions.

But from information gained from the most reliable sources, we must take exception to some of Mr. Cook's statements. He says the soil and climate is exceedingly diverse. This is hardly so. The soil is simply divided into upland and lowland, and is less diversified than that of any New England state. The climate is hot, and not one that the average citizen of the United States can withstand for a long period.

Mr. Cook also says the island is not thickly populated, and here, perhaps, he may give a wrong impression. It is about as thickly populated as the State of Connecticut, which most Americans would consider a fairly well settled locality.

HEIRESS HUNTING

"She must be sick," said Ettie Hall to herself, "or else she would have been here long ago. Poor Justine! Somehow things are arranged very strangely in this world. I can't understand what it all means, nor what I have done that I should be rich and courted, while Justine Maynard, who was my classmate at Madame Paulini's, trims dresses for a living. I deserve no credit for the skillful management of Uncle Crotchley, whereby my dollars became eagles. I only wish she would let me divide with her; but she has too much of the haughty Maynard blood in her veins for that. I'll go and see her."

And Ettie Hall ran upstairs into a little boudoir to tie on her hat. Just as she came out the maid brought up a card on a silver salver.

Ettie's telltale eyes sparkled as she glanced at the Roman-lettered inscription on the one side,

MARKHAM FERNLEY.

And then, taking it up, perused on the reverse side the following words:

May I accompany you to the opera to-night? Florine has a box and Salterelli will sing. Yours, ever devotedly,

Ettie caught up a sheet of pink notepaper monogrammed in gold and hurriedly scribbled upon it the one word, "Yes."

"Give that to him," she said hurriedly.

Justine Maynard's little room was no luxuriously appointed nest of lace and gold and Axminster. Bare and cold and poverty-stricken, its cracked walls and sloping roof gained no glow from the rosy sunset; and Justine herself lay on the bed, with hands pressed to her throbbing forehead.

"Only a headache, dear," she said, essaying a faint smile, as Ettie Hall hurried toward her. "That is all. And I have been a little worried by the landlord; he will be back again presently for the money that I shall not be able to give him. If he would only wait until to-morrow."

"Let me pay him, Justine."

"I am not a beggar, yet, Ettie—nay, do not look hurt. I know how tender and large-souled you are; but I have never yet accepted charity, even from so dear a friend as you, and I never will—no, not if I die first. To-morrow I can take that satin dress home and receive $10 for making it. That will set me all right. I should have returned it to-night, but this pain makes a mere child of me."

"Justine," said she, "I've an idea. I'll take this dress home for you. I'll get the money and bring it back."

"Nonsense, Ettie!"

"Very good sense, on the contrary." And Ettie deftly placed it within sheets of brown paper wrapping and tied it up.

"Come, where is it to go to?"

"To Miss Fernley, in Middleton square. Oh, Ettie! how shall I ever repay you for all your kindness?"

Ettie was tying a dark brown veil so closely over her hat that Justine Maynard never saw the deep dye on her cheek. She was almost sorry she had offered to take Florine Fernley's new dress home. For a second her resolution wavered, and then she reproached herself for even that second's indecision.

"I'll be back very soon, dear," she said, stooping to press her cool lips to Justine's fevered brow. "And I'll bring the money, too, or I mistake my own talent at the debt-collecting business."

She hurried away with the bundle neatly balanced in her arms, and walked rapidly, lest her resolution should fail her. It was not a long walk, for the Fernleys lived in Middleton square, but a few blocks distant.

"Yes, Miss Fernley was at home," and with a supercilious insolence which made Ettie's blood boil, the girl pointed up a dark stairway.

"Just up there and you'll find her. First door to the left."

Miss Ettie Hall followed the directions and found herself in a twilight apartment, where draped mirrors and sweet, faint scents betrayed the manifold mysteries of a young lady's toilette.

"What's wanting? Why can't I have my nap in peace?" querously demanded Florine Fernley's voice. "Oh, it is that everlasting dressmaker. Mark! Mark! I want ten dollars."

"So do I—ten thousand," retorted a familiar voice from the next room. "But I can't have all I want."

"You borrowed twenty of me to hire that nonsensical opera box."

"That was business, my dear."

"Business! Nonsense! Give me the money, I say," fretted Florine.

"Yes, business, my girl. Heiress-hunting is as much business as speculating on Wall treet, and the fair Henrietta is a fish that won't jump at any ordinary bait."

"Hush!" cried Florine, sharply, and then, turning to the soi-disant dressmaker, she said:

"It isn't convenient to pay you to-day. Call again next week or the week after."

"Excuse me," answered Ettie in a low but resolute voice; "I must have the money now."

"Must!" retorted Miss Fernley as she angrily rang the bell. "Mary, show this person out!"

"I decline to leave the dress until I am paid for it," said Ettie firmly.

"Now, look here, you dressmaker girl," said the harsh voice of Markham Fernley, as he advanced from the inner apartment, "none of your impudence. Leave the dress or I'll send for a policeman and teach you your proper place in short order."

"I would not do that, Mr. Fernley," said Ettie, who had by this time recovered her self-possession completely. "I am not a 'dressmaking girl,' but I intend to collect the money that my friend has earned."

Struck by some accent of her tone, Markham Fernley paused a second, then lighted the gas. Ettie Hall deliberately threw back her veil.

" 'The fair Henrietta,' she quoted, with a shrug of her shoulders.

"Miss Hall!"

"You have said it. And now let me have the money for my friend, Miss Maynard."

"Certainly — certainly," stammered Markham Fernley, fumbling in his pocketbook. "And——"

"Thank you," with a regal inclination of her head. "Good evening."

That was the last that he ever saw of Henrietta Hall.

HIS HAIR STOOD UP.

Experience of a Prospector on Facing Four Mountain Lions.

"Twice in my life, up to five years ago, I had felt my hair crawl," said the prospector, "but as to its standing on end I didn't believe such a thing possible. I was knocking about the mountains of Idaho with a partner, when I went out alone one day to pop over some game for the dinner pot. I had gone a mile or more from camp and had descended to the bottom of a ravine to get a drink of water, when I turned the top of a fallen tree and ran plump against as pretty a sight as you ever saw.

"On a grassy spot, in the full blaze of the sun, lay four mountain lions fast asleep. For half a minute I thought them dead, but as I stood staring with my mouth open every one of the four sprang up with a growl. I had a Winchester in my hands, but I could no more have lifted it to my face than I could have uprooted the mountain. The first sensation I had caught me in the ankles. It was a numbness, as if my feet were asleep, and it travelled upward until I stood there like a block of ice. Only my brain was left clear. On top of the numbness came a feeling that I was breaking out with a rash. Then the hair at the back of my neck began to curl and twist and crackle and a minute later every hair on my head was on end. I had a soft felt hat, and I am sure that hat was lifted up an inch or two.

"As to the lions, they stood there, head on to me and sniffing and growling and switching their tails, and had I but moved a finger they would have been on me. I didn't move, because I couldn't; I don't believe I moved an eyelash for three minutes. By and by one of the beasts dropped his tail and whined. My unexpected presence and queer appearance mystified him. His actions were followed by another, and ten seconds later the four made a sneak down the ravine, growling and whining as they went. They had been gone a minute before I felt my blood circulating again, and perhaps it was another minute before I could move about. Then I found my hat on the ground at my feet. There wasn't a breath of wind down there, and if my hair didn't lift the hat off my head how did it leave it? I know the hat was pushed off. I know it, because when I got back to camp my hair hadn't yet flattened down, and when my chum rubbed his hand over my head there was a crackling as of a rabbit running through the dry brush. This state of things continued for two days, and the way I finally got the scare out of the hair was to rub on about a pint of coon's fat and heat it at the camp fire."—St. Louis Republic.

AGRICULTURAL.

Winter and early spring on the farm are to a large extent seasons of rest from actual labor, yet a great deal may be done now to advance the work of the busy season when it comes upon us. All farm and garden implements should at this time be carefully examined and put in condition for use when wanted, as this work can be as well done during the winter as left until the crowd of spring work is at hand. By attention to these little details much valuable time may be saved for both men and teams.

Unless a blacksmith shop is among the farm appurtenances or one is near at hand, a supply of bolts of assorted lengths and sizes with wrenches and bits to fit the same will often save a trip to the village in case of needed repairs on account of breakage.

A man with any skill in the use of tools will frequently repair a broken implement if provided with material and tools needed for such repairs, in much less time than would be occupied in going to a mechanic with the same. The farmers' repair shop will therefore prove a paying investment on every farm even for this purpose alone, and besides on stormy days in summer much work may be done there at a great saving both by the farmer and the help in his employ.

Plans should be made in advance for the arrangement and planting of the family garden and all necessary seeds and other requisites for the season's work secured and ready for use in their proper season and this is the time to give attention to these details. The seedsmen's catalogues, many of which may be had without cost for the asking and any of which are worth more than the small price asked for them, are a valuable aid to the selection of seeds, etc., required, besides containing many valuable hints on garden management.

Furnish the wife, son or daughter with postal cards to send for such catalogs as are advertised in your farm papers if you do not wish to do so yourself and see if the kitchen garden is not improved the coming summer through their influence.

While making these plans for the garden on the lines herein suggested see to it that your plan includes preparation for a good sized asparagus bed and also liberal plantations of strawberries, raspberries (black and red,) long blackberries, currants, gooseberries etc., etc.

Plant everything in rows lengthwise of the garden so the main part of the cultivation may be done with horse and cultivator and you will find the saving of labor thus effected will amply repay for all needed extra space.—E. J. Brownell, in Ohio Farmer.

SULZER WANTS IT.

Croker, Murphy and Bryan to Confe--Tammany Getting a Big Hold on the Proceedings--The Declaration of Independence Will be Read.

Kansas City, Mo., June 27—Congressman William Sulzer, who is being boomed for Vice-President on the Democratic ticket, and Richard Croker and ex-Senator E. G. Murphy, of New York, will have a conference at Lincoln, Neb., with William J. Bryan before they come to Kansas City to attend the National convention. Stedling Price, of Texas, who has opened headquarters here for Mr. Sulzer, today received a telegram from that gentleman saying he had left New York for Lincoln at noon today. Another telegram says Messrs. Croker and Murphy will be in Nebraska's capital on Friday night. Mr. Sulzer hopes to be on the ticket with Bryan, and it is said the latter expressed a desire to confer him. Further than this Mr. Bryan would vouchsafe nothing.

President O'Connell, of the Sons of Liberty, the oldest organization in New York, is on his way to Kansas City, and will open up headquarters for Sulzer tomorrow or Friday. Ed Feigel, editor of the Tammany Times, another Sulzer boomer, will arrive Friday.

The city is beginning to take on a gala appearance in anticipation of an early arrival of delegates, business houses are being decorated, arc and incandescent lights are being strung in profusion on the down-town streets and a general clean up is in progress. A good-sized contingent of Eastern newspaper men have already arrived, but a general inflow of people is not expected until Friday. Ex-Governor William J. Stone, National committeeman for Missouri, and vice chairman of the National committee, is expected Friday night, as are other members of the sub-committee, who will hold a meeting on Saturday. James Boyle, district leader of Tammany, will arrive Saturday night with about a dozen of his colleagues. They come to prepare the way for the Tammany delegation, which will reach Kansas City Monday evening on two special trains. Sunday the State delegation will begin to arrive. The Pennsylvania delegation, made up of 100 people, and the Montana delegation, headed by W. A. Clark, is due Sunday morning, and the Kansas delegation in the evening. On Monday the New England delegates, from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island, with George Fred Williams, of Massachusetts, their vice presidential candidate, will reach the city, and on the same day the California and Missouri delegations will arrive.

The great rush of delegates will be on Tuesday. Nearly all of the States not mentioned are booked to arrive on that date.

A convention innovation, the reading of the declaration of independence from the platform, will be introduced at the first session on July 4th, and, according to the present program, the music and decorations of that day will be selected with a particular idea of the commerating the national holiday.

The badges for the delegates have been received. They are an elaborate affair. There is an oxidized silver bar for the pin, below which hangs a silk flag about four inches long. To the flag is attached a medallion of gold or oxidized silver.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and othaches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to moke you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.
